in 1976 the southern baptist convention adopted its bold new thrusts in foreign missions with the overarching goal of sharing the gospel with every person in the world by the year 2000 the formation of cooperative services international csi in 1985 and the assigning of the first non residential missionary nrm in 1987 demonstrated the foreign mission board's now international mission board commitment to take the gospel message to countries that restricted traditional missionary presence and to people groups identified as having little or no access to the gospel. carlton traces the historical development along with an analysis of the key components of the paradigm and its significant impact on southern baptists missiology. dr carlton has produced an outstanding one of a kind work addressing the influence of the non residential missionary strategy coordinator's role in southern baptist missions. this well written scholarly text examines the twentieth century global missiological currents that influenced the leadership of the international mission board resulting in a new paradigm to assist in taking the gospel to the nations. dr carlton writes as both a missiologist and a missionary. this work reveals the keen eye of a scholar but also the heart of a practitioner who desires to see the multiplication of disciples, leaders and churches across the globe. this text is a must read for anyone longing to know more about the recent history of the international mission board and the theology and missiology behind the sc role and church planting movements. j d payne, national missionary, north american mission board and assistant professor of church planting and evangelism, the southern baptist theological seminary, i have enjoyed friendship and partnership in the gospel with bruce carlton in different capacities. when i served as the strategy coordinator for a south asian city, bruce was my supervisor. he helped me understand what i was trying to do and how i should be doing it. since my return to pastoral ministry in america, bruce has been a missiological dialogue partner in both capacities. bruce has been a flame stoker fanning the flames of commitment to make disciples of all nations. i'm glad that bruce has taken on the task of explaining and evaluating the development of the nonresidential missionary nrm and strategy coordinator sc paradigms. he writes from three important perspectives. bruce writes as an insider. in cambodia, bruce was a practitioner of what has developed into the sc approach. his work was at the wellspring of hundreds of reproducing churches. after leaving cambodia, bruce taught and mentored many men and women in methodologies for planting reproducing churches. bruce has lived through the development of these paradigms as an effective practitioner. bruce writes as an insightful researcher. he asks important questions about the nrm, sc and church planting movement paradigms and searches for honest answers. finally, bruce writes as a respecer of the relational character of missions. on the front lines of gospel advance, the spirit mediates the word through people. grand strategies and paradigms also develop within relational contexts. from these three perspectives, bruce helps us understand why the paradigms have developed as they have and equips us to ask key questions as we look forward. e coye still iii phd r bruce carlton served in asia from 1986 to 2007 as a church planter strategy coordinator and trainer in areas and among peoples with little or no access to the gospel he is the author of acts 29 practical training for facilitating church planting movements among the neglected harvest fields a manual for training strategy coordinators that has been translated into seventeen different languages presently carlton serves as the associate professor of missions at boyce college a school of southern baptist theological seminary in louisville kentucky usa sources and methods in indigenous studies is a synthesis of changes and innovations in methodologies in indigenous studies focusing on sources over a broad chronological and geographical range written by a group of highly respected indigenous studies scholars from across an array of disciplines this collection offers insight into the methodological approaches contributors take to research and how these methods have developed in recent years the book has a two part structure that looks firstly at the theoretical and disciplinary movement of indigenous studies within history literature anthropology and the social sciences chapters in this section reveal that while engaging with other disciplines indigenous studies has forged its own intellectual path by borrowing and innovating from other fields in part two the book examines the many different areas with which sources for indigenous history have been engaged including the importance of family gender feminism and sexuality as well as various elements of expressive culture such as material culture literature and museums together the chapters offer readers an overview of the dynamic state of the field in indigenous studies this book shines a spotlight on the ways in which scholarship is transforming indigenous studies in methodologically innovative and exciting ways and will be essential reading for students and scholars in the field
